REFUGE – ACCESS – FUTURE

A PROGRAM FOR THREATENED RESEARCHERS

About the Program

With the start of the Summer Semester 2017, the University of Bonn establishes the pilot project "Refuge · Access · Future" for threatened researchers. It is financed by means of the Philipp Schwartz Initiative. The program will include courses and consultation for researchers who found refuge in Bonn and for threatened researchers who currently work at the University of Bonn. The entire program is free of charge.

Who can participate?

- Threatened researchers who have not been resident outside their own country for more than three years (threatened researchers are persons who are threatened by war/persecution or who can no longer freely conduct their research)

- Postdocs and advanced researchers (primary target group)

- Doctoral Students can be admitted depending on capacities

- Participants should reside in Bonn or in the region in order to be able to fully participate in the program (time table, see below)

- Language skills in German or English

How to apply

Please submit the following documents until 15 February 2017:

- CV and Publication List

- Brief documentation of threat (max. 15 lines)

- Brief documentation of aspirations (max. 15 lines)

- Own language assessment (German and English)

What is offered?

- German Courses (dependent on response rate and levels)

- Courses and workshops on the following subjects (currently at the planning state/dependent on participant's needs):
  - Intercultural Training
  - German Academia
  - Research Funding und Funding Application Practice
  - Job Application Practice
  - Social and Cultural Events
  - Individual Consultation

The entire program is free of charge!

Time table

- Registration until 15 February 2017

- Start of the Program: 22 February 2017

Contact

Simon Benhöfer
University of Bonn
International Office
Phone: 0228-73 4823
Email: benhoefer[at]uni-bonn.de

www.uni-bonn.de/international/international-researchers/threatened-researchers